EDUCATION

LL.B.

2025, Universidad Anáhuac, Mexico.

With over 4 years of professional experience, Regina specializes in energy and corporate law, with a practice focused on legal and regulatory advisory services for the electricity and hydrocarbons sectors. She has participated in the development and implementation of energy projects, providing advisory services on permits, regulatory compliance, and analysis of the sector's regulated activities.

In the electricity sector, she advises clients on generation, self-supply, supply, and interconnection projects, as well as on obtaining, modifying, and regularizing permits and reviewing contracts related to such activities.

In the hydrocarbons sector, she provides regulatory advisory services to companies participating throughout the entire value chain, including exploration and extraction, processing, transportation, storage, distribution, commercialization, retail, and self-consumption.

She also participates in corporate law matters, including the incorporation and reorganization of companies, contract review, and due diligence processes for domestic and international clients.
